DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention as follows:

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). In the present instance, claim 9 recites the broad recitation “dairy product, and the claim also recites “preferably a yoghurt” which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim 10 provides for the use of a pharmaceutical agent, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F.

Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 00/07607 in view of Sips et al. and WO 01/15552.

WO 00/07607 disclose nutrient and therapeutic compositions for treatment of cancer which contain a mixture of components, including vitamins, minerals, including chromium, vanadium and strontium and amino acids, including arginine, isoleucine and serine (Pages 15-18, 37).

Sips et al. disclose that strontium chloride is a bioavailable form of strontium (See entire reference).

WO 01/15552 disclose a nutritional supplement containing vitamins, chromium, strontium, vanadium, arginine, isoleucine, serine which can be incorporated into food, including yogurts (Pages 11, 13).

The prior art discloses nutrient and therapeutic compositions for treatment of cancer which contain a mixture of components, including vitamins, minerals, including chromium, vanadium and strontium and amino acids, including arginine, isoleucine and serine. The difference between the prior art and the claimed invention is that the prior art does not expressly disclose the use of strontium chloride or combination with a food, such as yogurt. However, the prior art amply suggests the same as the prior art discloses that strontium chloride is a bioavailable form of strontium and that components disclosed in the prior art can be incorporated into yogurt. As such, it would have been well within the skill of one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the art as above with the expectation that a yogurt containing strontium chloride and the other component would be suitable for treating a cancer patient.

Therefore, the claimed invention, as a whole, would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, because every element of the invention has been collectively taught by the combined teachings of the references.
